

Game review website

Page #1 features a “game of the week”, it's genre and description as well as ratings, ideally a total score as well as individual reviews

Page #2 review writer page, where users can write reviews on games by genre, platform, or rating. reviews will include a rating system, user comments possibly more. a filtering option could also be implemented, filtering, genre, platform, or minimum rating

Page #3 registered users can submit their reviews of games. including a form where users can enter the game title, platform, rating, and their written review.

Page #4 review finder list of the top-rated games on the site based on user ratings. This could be divided by platform

Page #5 tool that allows users to compare different games side by side based on criteria like ratings, genres, platforms, and user reviews.

This whole system would have a lot of tools involved, data storage of an account, list of written reviews, or saved reviews from others, creation of reviews for manipulation of data. Lots of possibilities